COMMENTS

- ❖ Very informative – eye opening – and interesting
- ❖ Resiliency is a matter of protective factors. Kids are responding to dynamics at home and in their communities. Also, how are boys more resilient than girls? Don't they kill themselves more?
- ❖ It was great!
- ❖ Very well done
- ❖ Great workshop. I'm a special Ed teacher at a behavioral school. Not all practices apply in my classroom, but it applies to how I connect to coach youth sports. Will help me in my future and growth as educator.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FUTURE WORKSHOPS

- ❖ I would have loved to have more resources given out including PPT at the beginning to help with role0taking
- ❖ Regarding resilience – I work with a number of students with a history of severe trauma and any type of bullying or negative attention is especially problematic – what would you recommend in this situation?
- ❖ Very tight seating

COMMENTS:

- ❖ Cyberbullying was not the topic – would not have signed up if I knew the topic was all about sexting
- ❖ Very interesting very relevant
- ❖ Very interesting info & data presented. I enjoyed the humor 😊
- ❖ She was a great speaker
- ❖ Excellent information – provocative topic!
- ❖ Absolutely excellent – Her humor added a great deal to the presentation – loved it
- ❖ Loved this conference! Thank you! I'm going to use your curricula for my group
- ❖ Great presentation!!
- ❖ She was engaging, well spoken and thoughtful. Humor was much appreciated stylistically (especially compared to typical professional/workshop cheese). She's an expert in the field, I just wish she went more in depth during the workshop rather than give a survey.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FUTURE WORKSHOPS:

- ❖ Short video clips – Great documentary about Instagram or Netflix
- ❖ Instead of forwarding us to her sources, delving in more. Almost too efficient of a speaker
- ❖ Too cold in room
